Thank you Mervyn and Adele. We had a wonderful exchange in your lovely home. The car exchange went very smoothly and we were able to travel most of Northern Ireland, while using your home as our base. Your lovely neighbour Pat was a fountain of knowledge about the area. Bobby was so generous with his time, taking us to his golf club and spending time with us.

The brochures you left were very helpful and the use of the sat-nav was invaluable. Your home was very comfortable with a wonderful view we never tired of. We thank you for leaving our home in a clean and tidy state.

We would thoroughly recommend a home swap with Mervyn and Adele as everything was just as you would want it to be.

We have been home of Mervyn and Adele this summer. We found a fantastic house, big, clean and with wonderful views over a lake. Clear information about the house and places to see. With us has lived in the house a resident furry, four-legged, his dog Jasper, loving and sociable.

We have spent unforgettable days touring beautiful places north of Ireland, green landscapes, towns, beaches, cliffs, lakes, islands and rivers. Communication with Mervyn easy and smooth. The last day we had the pleasure to have coffee with Mervyn and Adele in the airport. We found some nice people, open, generous, polite and great humanity.

We just returned from an exchange with Adele and Mervyn in their house on the edge of Ireland Portnabally Kesh. We traded for the first time car and home airport / airport. It went very well. Mervyn and Adele left us a lot of information on possible visits. The experience is very positive.

The sight of their house overlooks Lough Erne, splendid! The interior is pleasant and welcoming and their dog Jasper is adorable. The neighbours are friendly and if we returned a little later, they supported Jasper. We had very little rain even too good for my husband who loves fishing, the waters were a bit low.

We loved the Irish coast far side than on the side of Belfast to Derry Killibeg. We return to Ireland and if you want to go in Northern Ireland or Ireland home Adele and Mervyn is very well located for visiting the whole of Northern Ireland. We recommend it.

We did a non-simultaneous exchange in summer 2012. Their comfortable house is in a good location for visiting the north/north west of Ireland. We enjoyed days out in Derry, Enniskillen, toured the coast of Donegal and had the lakes of Fermanagh on our doorstep. More importantly, we enjoyed coming back to their house and relaxing there. Plenty of information, brochures were also left for us. Thanks again Mervyn and Adele.

We enjoyed our stay a lot! It's an ideal spot from which to explore the peacefulness and beauty of the Lough Erne region on a sunny day whether by car, on the bike, on foot, while boating the wonderfully varied loughs or visiting one of the stately homes.

We also found much to discover further afield: Donegal and its beaches and the treasures of Ulster's northwestern coastline. Or then we whiled away our time in their pleasant home surrounded by countryside and within walking distance of Kesh. We just loved their sun-room – which even features a cosy fireplace, should the weather turn nasty.

Communication before our exchange was excellent. We were lucky enough to meet the Walkers at the airport - which was a most pleasant beginning of a very enjoyable holiday. We were provided with ample information about the area at their home – and we had the pleasure of meeting their delightful mothers for a chat over tea – including delicious home-baked scones!

Thanks a lot, Mervyn and Adele, for a most successful exchange!

We had a wonderful exchange with Mervyn and Adele in Kesh, Co Fermanagh. The house is beautiful, well-equipped, clean, comfortable and spacious. All communications were friendly and helpful; useful leaflets and information was left for us in the house. There is plenty to see and do in the area and the neighbours were friendly and helpful, too. Highly recommended.

Sars and I had a lovely stay in Enniskillen in Northern Ireland. The house is very comfortable and in a lovely rural area and Mervyn and Adele met us half way between our two homes and we had a most enjoyable lunch and chat.

There was lots of fabulous scenery to enjoy and the people we met were just so helpful and kind we felt very welcome up there and hope to return and explore it all more fully in the future.

We are just back from a very enjoyable and successful home exchange with the Walker family in Kesh, Northern Ireland. In fact it was definitely one of the best exchanges we have ever had. We are very experienced home exchangers with almost 30 exchanges during the last 20 years.

This time we met our exchange friends in person as they will come to our house at a different time. Mervyn and Adele both contributed a lot to making our exchange a wonderful experience. They were very helpful and took us to lots of places and we did get to know their family.

They have a lovely dog whose name is Jasper, a Royal Cavalier and we were allowed to look after him. We had so much fun with Jasper, took him on long walks in the dense forests around Lower Lough Erne and watched him swimming and diving in the dark water.

Kesh is an ideal location for exploring Northern Ireland. It is a little charming town with several supermarkets, stores and of course some nice pubs. Mervyn and Adele introduced us to the local pub scene and it was interesting to meet some of the locals there.

After having been in the South of Ireland some years ago we were keen on visiting Northern Ireland. Many people outside of Ireland associate Northern Ireland with troubles and riots and Catholics and Protestants fighting each other. We have never seen any sign of violence during our stay there and Catholics as well as Protestants live together in peace.

Northern Ireland does have a lot of offer with its beautiful and untouched countryside, the rugged coastline and of course its friendly and hospitable people. I wish everybody who is interested in going to Northern Ireland the same good luck we had when agreeing on an exchange with Mervyn and Adele Walker...and Jasper.

We look forward to having Mervyn and Adele over to Austria in the hopefully not too distant future!

Northern Ireland is an hidden pearl to discover and this house in Co Fermanagh is the perfect starting point to explore it with family. Our hosts are real "home exchange professionals" and know how to prepare everything right for their guests. We warmly recommend this place.
